

RAILSIDE
Atlanta, Georgia

Railside is a mixed-use development that is also the future home of TSW offices. Located in the rapidly changing Castleberry Hills neighborhood just south of Downtown, the Railside project takes a challenging site and creates a vibrant, mixed-use project that will enhance the street-level environment and solidify the edge of the neighborhood against the rail road tracks.

The development consists of retail, office, and loft style condominium residences on a triangle parcel of land between Peters Street and the rail line. The focal point of the development is along Peters Street with office and condominiums over retail spaces that enclose a hardscaped courtyard. Other open space areas include sloped greens that buffer the project from the rail line.
