Litchfield Main Square

Litchfield Reunion is a four phase resort community planned for Pawley's Island, South Carolina for the Litchfield Company. Architectural pieces designed by TSW consist of a Town Square, with retail and amenities, the Manor House Inn, cottages, villas, courtyard houses, and other second-home product offerings.

The center piece of Reunion is the Manor House Inn, a 62 room Inn and time-share facility. Architecturally, the Inn is designed as a Georgian Estate House with French Colonial Influences. Ground level rooms all have semi-private walled terraces; upper rooms have covered balconies. Amenities found at the Inn include grille dining, a library, and a small fitness center.

Influences of local low-country and island vernacular architecture are apparent in exterior design as well as unit plans. The result is a seamless blend of historic precedents to create a memorable signature for this neighborhood of the Litchfield community.
