Inspired by simple rustic hunting lodges of the South, the Timberline Clubhouse is a 10,300 sq. ft. semi-private facility. Understated in appearance, the classically proportioned club uses only native materials: Alabama blue square rubble stone, cedar board and batten siding, and cedar wall shingles.

The Great Room, an eighteen-foot-high space with extensive windows overlooking the 18th green, serves as both lounge and golfer's dining room. TSW is also designing the cart storage building, toilet pavilions, and pump house.
