LCI CHARRETTE #1: EXISTING CONDITIONS/VISIONING

McDONOUGH – Henry County’s Hudson Bridge-Jonesboro Roads Connector Activity Center Livable Centers Initiative (LCI) Study continues with its first community charrette. The charrette will include a public presentation of study findings to-date in the areas of land use, urban design, transportation, and markets. Results of the online Image Preference Survey will also be presented.

The charrette will continue with a discussion of what parts of the study area are most appropriate for the kinds of places preferred in the Image Preference Survey. The public will also have opportunities to identify other ideas that should be addressed in the LCI planning process.

The charrette will be held at the Community Bible Church in the Student Center at 2001 Jodeco Road, Stockbridge, GA on Tuesday, September 22, 2009, from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m.

Future opportunities for stakeholders and citizens to get involved will include a second charrette to discuss potential alternatives for the future of the area. The website www.henrycountylci.org allows the public to follow the study’s progress, review materials and documents, and view schedules of public outreach activities. The LCI study presents an opportunity for “Smart Growth” options within the study area. Its success is critical to future quality of life for Henry County citizens.
